5. How a family grows and changes when a marriage takes place.

Ans. A family also grows and changes when a grown-up man or woman in a family gets married. In this occasion the bride groom and bride's families get together. Some people travel from other places to be present at a family wedding. People enjoy themselves a lot. In some weddings, there are special functions also. After the wedding the new husband and wife become a small family. Most people also have their own children after they get married. In this way a family grows and changes when a marriage takes place.
